FOOT BALL.

There hasn't been much practice by the local team this week, but beginning this afternoon, the players will be given the careful drilling of last week by "Bob" Edwards, for Saturday's game with the Franklin College team, of New Athens, Ohio.

While the scores have not been large in its favor, yet Wheeling has the satisfaction of not having had its goal line crossed so far this season. Bethany college was defeated 6 to 0; Steubenville Y. M. C. I., 5 to 0; Washington, 11 to 0.

Bethany college will play the locals here on Saturday, November 25. The Thanksgiving game isn't closed yet, W. V. U. wanting too stiff a guarantee.

THE RAILROADS.

At the conference at Cincinnati on Monday, at which a new through passenger service was arranged via the Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia, Norfolk & Western, Ohio River and Pan Handle between Pittsburgh and Wheeling and Cincinnati, the following officials were present: General Passenger Agent E. A. Ford and Assistant General Passenger Agent George E. Rockwell, of the Pennsylvania lines west; L. E. Chaloner, general freight and passenger agent, and W. J. Hamilton, superintendent, of the Ohio River railroad; W. B. Bevil, general passenger agent, and Allen Hull, division passenger agent, of the Norfolk & Western, and T. D. Rose, general passenger agent, and general manager of the Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia.

A close traffic arrangement was effected at this meeting whereby a hand-some train will be put on between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, one each way per day, leaving Cincinnati at 8 every morning via the Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia, to Portsmouth, Norfolk & Western to Kenova, W. Va.; Ohio River railroad to Wheeling, and Pennsylvania line to Pittsburgh. No stops will be made for 106 miles out of Cincinnati, running straight through to Portsmouth, and only one between Portsmouth and Kenova-Ironton.

Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia officials say there is nothing in the wide-spread story that the Pennsylvania company has acquired that road. That, they say, is also true of the Ohio River road; in the case of the latter there simply exists a very close understanding between the Standard Oil Company, which owns the road, and the Pennsylvania people. The new arrangement goes into effect next Monday.

An Advance Asked.

On Saturday afternoon a committee, representing the various classes of the employees of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, called on the president and asked for an increase in wages. Every branch of the service was represented, and it is said that they asked for an advance of 10 per cent. It has been learned that the Wheeling officials did not treat with them at that time, but asked them to wait until a future date, when the officials shall have had time to canvass the subject and decide what shall be done. It is the understanding that the road does not care to treat with the men as an organized body but will treat with them as individuals.

Some time ago the announcement was made that the Wheeling had decided to advance the wages of all the employees from 10 to 40 per cent. This was said to have been done to make the wages of the men on the Cleveland division equal to those on the Toledo division. It is now said that this request is for an advance over the advance.

The officials of the road said that there was nothing in the report of the advance being asked, but gave an explanation of the visit of the committee that some matters of schedule were being talked over, and it was thought that the engineers and firemen and trainmen and operators would be able to throw a little light on what changes ought to be made.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last night's audience at the Opera House was a record-breaking one. There was not a seat to be had in orchestra, dress circle or gallery when the doors opened, but this did not prevent many from paying for the privilege of standing. The fame or notoriety of "Zaza" had reached Wheeling months ago, and there was no doubt a great deal of expectancy in the audience that was not realized. Mrs. Carter's interpretation of the role had done much to braid it as a very risqué play, and while the atmosphere last night was decidedly French, it was only so in a reminding way. Miss Mabel Howard, as the protagonist, gave Wheeling an interpretation which, while visibly softened in stage business, did not rob the character of Zaza of any of its strength. In fact her version added to the attractiveness of the wayward girl and imparted to many of the scenes an artistic touch that made one see only the loving, broken-hearted woman. For one having the limited opportunity of seeing her in this role, it was a remarkable character study. Miss Howard has the striking advantages of a comely face and figure combined with a charming personality. But even these graces would have been of little aid to her in portraying the complex emotions of a woman's heart, and the variant moods of Zaza did she not possess talent of a high order. The size of the audience was not the only tribute paid Miss Howard. Its breathless attentiveness to her lines was quite eloquent of praise. It was, perhaps, the most sympathetic one that has assembled in the Opera House this, or for that matter, any other season. Besides extending a curtain call to the fair actress at the end of each of the five acts, the audience paid her the conspicuous compliment of a triple encore at the close of the fourth act. It was a most pleasing entertainment, leaving an impression on the audience very favorable to Miss Howard, and it is to be hoped that she may visit us soon again.

The even and capable support was not the least striking feature of a very enjoyable performance. But this is always expected of Mr. Frohman's companies.

"Finnigan's Ball."

The familiar comedy, "Finnigan's Ball," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This is said to be one of the funniest farcical comedies of the season. It is said to be clean, yet hilarious; dainty, at the same time sidesplitting; farcical, yet free from a suggestion of the horse-play with which farce comedy has come to be associated. The names of the players are: Moran and Wesley, Delmore and Wilson, Fred De Noe, R. Blinn Owen, George Florida, the Modoc Quartette, Miss Trumbull, Fannie Trumbull, Mona Carrington, Curtis sisters, Julia Glick, and her school-mates, Mildred Lowell, Charlotte Vidot.

"A Contented Woman."

At the Opera House next Friday evening theatre-goers will have an opportunity to witness a performance of the most successful comedy America's most popular playwright, Charles Hoyt, has ever turned out. "A Contented Woman" is the title of the piece, and it has from all reports proven to be the greatest financial success of this popular author's career. The scenes of the play are laid in Denver, during an exciting political campaign in which women take part. Belle Archer, as the heroine, runs for the mayoralty on the woman's ticket against her husband, a Democratic "ring" politician. Husband and wife agree not to let politics interfere with their personal relations. The husband is a choleric and fiery; the wife cool and collected, and shows the ability of an old campaigner. She wins after turning one of his own political tricks to her own ends, and beating him by his own plot. The piece will be presented here with all the scenery and elaborate stage accessories, precisely the same as given at Hoyt's Theatre, New York. Sale of reserved seats begins Thursday.

"The Carpetbagger."

Mr. Hepburn Johns, the dramatic critic of the Chicago Chronicle, in a criticism on "The Carpetbagger," says: "It is a great and good American play." It is in this play, a political romantic comedy, that the eminent comedian Tim Murphy will be seen at the Opera House, Saturday, November 18, for matinee and night performances. "The Carpetbagger" is a clean cut comedy of American manners, the time chosen being the reconstruction period in the south after the war of the rebellion; the hero is a carpetbagger in the government's chair in Jackson, Miss., and its chief thread of interest, a love story of the good old kind, which it is to be hoped our fathers, as well as our mothers, used to make. An impressive picture of reconstruction is given in the play, but the great dramatic interest lies in the human and absolutely natural characters moving in an interesting story. Reserved seats on sale at the Opera House box office Friday morning.

BELLFAIRE HAPPENINGS.

Matters of Interest in the Metropolis of Belmont County.

The city council held rather an important meeting last night and declared both the electric light and the bond propositions carried. A petition was presented signed by property owners and light consumers in all parts of the city, asking council to invite bids and let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder. Hunter S. Armstrong resigned as city solicitor, because he was elected prosecuting attorney at the last election. The mayor appoints his successor and the council confirms until the spring election. The mayor yesterday afternoon had under consideration the names of C. W. Bente, Cook Danford and James C. Tallman. Council also passed the monthly payroll and transacted considerable routine business.

A gentleman who visited Columbus on Monday, says that office seekers are lined up in front of the office of Judge Nash, governor-elect, like patrons of a circus at the ticket wagon just before the show opens. There were three from Belmont county in line awaiting their turn. Many of the places to be filled will not be vacant for more than a year, and some of them are now filled by efficient and loyal Republicans.

BENWOOD.

News Notes From the Busy Marshall County Town.

The announcement in yesterday's Intelligence that George Long is a prospective candidate for the Republican nomination for city sergeant, was favorably received. Mr. Long has many friends and he will pull strength from both parties. Another aspirant talked of is Thomas Carroll, of the Republican executive committee, but it is also said Mr. Carroll may shy his castor in the ring for the mayoralty. It is not known whether Mayor Shepard will run again, but if he decides to do so he will figure there or thereabouts. The Democrats will put up Recorder "Joe" Ward for this office, and Marshal Furber may have opposition from Officer Louis Goeckle.

Rev. G. W. Kent, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be in great demand this evening. He will tie the nuptial knots for three couples, and will do it with neatness and dispatch. In addition to the Hunter-Evans and Riter-Jones ceremonies in Benwood, Mr. Kent will later unite two Wadestown, W. Va., young people at Wheeling. The parties are Mr. Brooks and Miss Ninie Edwards, friends of the Benwood clergyman.

Enoch Glover, who was taken to the Weston asylum, reported as not improving, a fact that will be received with regret by his Benwood friends. Mr. Glover's home is in Burton, but he worked at the Riverside until he was afflicted with mental derangement.

Mrs. Frank W. Fosterfield, Mrs. Albert Seale, Mrs. H. M. Stewart and Mrs. Amanda Morgan, are in Huntington, attending the meeting of the Daughters of Rebekah, which meets in connection with the grand lodge, I. O. O. F.

Thomas Rogers, the Riverside foreman, who was injured by a falling timber at the mill's pumping station, is able to be out, but is still very weak.

Building operations continue lively out Boggs' run and in Benwood there is considerable repairing and re-painting of property.

Misses Sarah Mahood and Cleo Bimmons returned yesterday from a visit to friends in Cadis, O.

The lower steel works is on again, after being off a brief spell, owing to a bursted blast pipe.

Work on the Riverside's arch at Boggs' run, has been temporarily delayed.
